programs, policy proposals, campaign agendas and information on the political stands taken by different political parties on a range of social, political, and economic issues.

While its principal beneficiaries will be voters in the 2021 elections, Warka will also facilitate access to comprehensive information on the above mentioned matters to other stakeholders, including the media, civil society, donors, researchers and academia.

Warka's main objective is to help voters make informed choices based on the information available on the platform regarding the different policy options and stands of political parties on substantive issues.

In the long term, Warka also seeks to facilitate and encourage inter-party dialogue, issue-based politics and accountability of political parties on the pledges they make to the public during elections.

This project will be supported with appropriate digital tools such as a mobile app, bots, website and will also incorporate gamified and interactive functionality that will allow users to easily compare different party positions and policies and compare them with their own political preferences.
